

Vectors "from scratch".

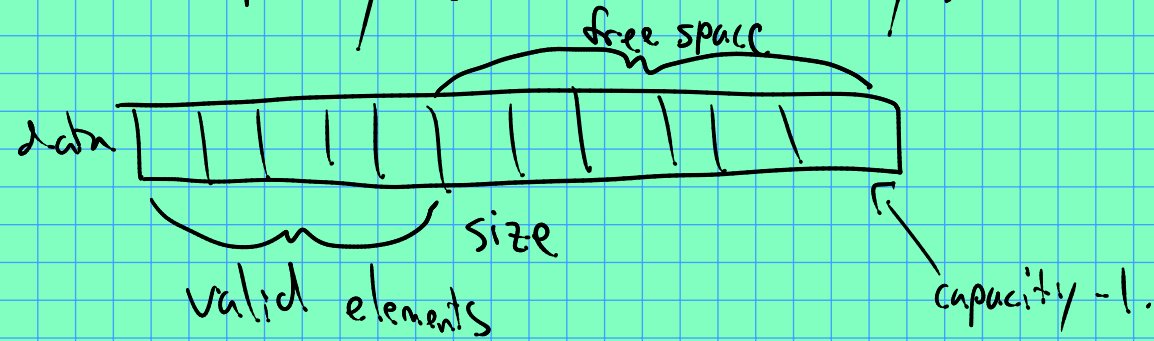

Can only use basic types (int, char...)

No STL stuff!

Can also use plain arrays.

How to represent a vector? What should we store?

- array for the data
- size (might be different than array's size)
- capacity (size of the array).

---

Note on private member variables:

